'COURTYARD', THE BIGGEST CELEBRATION OF WELSH BEER AND CIDER OUTSIDE OF WALES

Courtyard returns to King's Cross over the May Bank Holiday Weekend to bring a gargantuan celebration of Welsh craft beer and cider and the open-armed spirit of Wales to the heart of London. Celebrating over 140 of our favourite beers and ciders, we have lifted the Welsh Beer and Cider Festival that takes place at Green Man's Brecon Beacons location and dropped it in the centre of London.

We're offering a sizzling selection of Welsh street food, a Welsh cocktail bar, street theatre, science engagement, and family entertainment.

And of course, with it being a Green Man party, there's going to be a whole host of glorious, international genre-hopping musical delights. We'll be bringing you between four to eight bands each day, including Throws (with Bartonar, Male Choir Of Kaffibarinn Reykjavik), Pinegrove, The Proper Ornaments, Dutch Uncles, Kane Strang, and loads more, including a daily Twmpath.

A WELSH SHOWCASE:

With access to international attendees through its proximity to the Eurostar and central London location, Green Man will showcase excellent Welsh food, beverage and destinations with opportunities for Welsh language engagement.

All small and medium-sized Welsh businesses have their risk underwritten by Green Man, this is so they can take part and create a rare gathering of very high quality Welsh beverages in one location.

WALES IS OPEN FOR BUSINESS:

Green Man is an internationally recognised brand associated with quality, contemporary, Welsh experiences. This creates a unique environment for business engagement:

- Networking.
- National media exposure.
- VIP bespoke packages.
- Supporting inward investment to Wales.

PREVIOUS COURTYARD'S:

26,000 attendees over 5 days.

52 independent businesses supported.

4MILLION + Total media reach print, online & broadcast.

WHAT OUR FRIENDS SAY

"Courtyard was a huge success! There's literally been thousands of people enjoying the huge selection on offer. From a purely business point of view, it's great to be involved with green man. It's amazing to see a festival of their size not just actively promoting the very best of local produce on the site of festival but also bringing the best of Wales to London."

BUSTER GRANT, CHAIRMAN OF DRINKS WALES

"Green Man is an extremely successful Welsh media brand, and we were delighted that they agreed to be one of our brand partners. We asked Green Man to produce a stand out event that offered something unique and amazing and they certainly delivered that! We are looking forward to Courtyard returning to King's Cross."

REBECCA BENNETT, ARGENT LLP

"Courtyard at King's Cross was refreshingly authentic, and thankfully offered something unique in the London event calendar. You definitely felt like you had stepped into the welcoming independence of Wales' Green Man itself, which added to the enjoyment."

JAMES DRURY, EDITOR IN CHIEF, THE LONDONIST

"Courtyard was a really excellent weekend - it felt tangibly different to other festivals in the city; more mellow and more intimate. And while of course it carried a flavour of green man itself, it also had its own personality. The beer, the music and the crowd were all brilliant, I loved it so much that I left another show in Hyde Park to return to Courtyard!"

LAURA BARTON, THE GUARDIAN
